

China Debate in Third Day Before UN

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The China debate moves into its third day today with scheduled speeches heavily weighted in favor of the Albanian proposal to seat the Peking government in the United Nations and expel Nationalist China.

As in the first two days of the debate, no dramatic switches are expected.

Though some nations on Monday and Tuesday indicated changes from their 1970 positions, the switches already had been announced or widely anticipated.

Among those expected to speak are the Soviet Union, France, Sweden, Denmark, Nepal, Southern Yemen and Chile, all supporting speeches from two cosponsors, Liberia and Switzerland, and probably Columbia and Uruguay.

Ecuador last year supported a U.S. resolution—making the China issue an "important question" requiring a two-thirds vote for passage rather than a simple majority—but Ambassador Leopoldo Benites indicated in a speech Tuesday he will either vote against it or abstain from voting on it this year.

The Albanian resolution, which is on the agenda ahead of the U.S. two-Chinas resolution, is expected to win a simple majority without great difficulty.

The United States and the cosponsors of its resolution therefore feel they must win passage of the "important question" proposal on expelling Nationalist China in order to defeat the Albanian resolution and bring theirs to a vote.

Japan was the last to Tuesday among sponsoring the U. resolution.

A Vatican Commission Attacks U.S.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican commission attacked the U.S. government today for its recent unilateral changes in the financial system and voiced support for those who refuse to fight for the United States in Vietnam.

The Pontifical Commission on Justice and Peace, in a document submitted to the World Synod of Roman Catholic Bishops, urged the synod to deplore recent "monetary decisions taken by some rich countries which involve the well being and the development of 2 billion persons" in poor countries.

The 64-point message also called on the synod to support those who "refuse to participate in certain wars or certain acts of war, such as the bombardment of civil populations." It called for "understanding of those who, in the name of their faith or their conscience, refuse to bear arms."

Although neither clause mentioned the United States by name, its intent was clear.

The message also condemned colonialism and neocolonialism, racial discrimination, particularly in South Africa, and increasing armaments and nationalism.

The outline of recommended policy positions was submitted to the assembly of 209 bishops as they took up the second major topic in their month-long meeting, social justice. During the first two weeks of the synod the bishops discussed problems of the priesthood, recording massive opposition to the ordination of married men but strong support for acceptance of priests who marry as "laymen in good standing."

New Drive on to Cut Off War Money

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war senators mounted a new drive to cut off money for the Indochina war today after House leaders blocked a yes-or-no vote but claimed House rejection of a Senate six-month war deadline.

House-Senate conferees immediately set to work trying to compromise a $21-billion weapons bill containing the deadline after a fiery House battle Tuesday.

House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., pessimistically predicted "a long, cold winter" before the conferees reach agreement.

The new Cooper-Church amendment to cut off all money for the war except funds needed to pull out U.S. forces was up for Senate Foreign Relations Committee consideration this afternoon.

Previous efforts similar to the one by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, to cut short the war by halting funds have been rejected by both House and Senate.

House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois side-tracked a direct vote on the Senate's six-month deadline Tuesday by moving that the House reject five Senate amendments including the war amendment purely on grounds they violate House rules requiring that amendments be pertinent.

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — Fifteen elderly persons, most in their 80s and 90s and many of them bedridden, perished Tuesday night in a fire that swept rapidly through a private nursing home near this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community.

Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings said he would ask for a state investigation.

All of the victims, trapped in their rooms on either side of a corridor, were believed to have died of smoke inhalation, Jennings said.

Only a licensed practical nurse, on duty alone at the time, escaped the blaze as it filled the residential wing of the Geiger Nursing Home with thick, black smoke.

"I intend to request the state Department of Labor and Industry and the Department of Welfare to conduct an immediate investigation at the state level," Jennings said.

"If there is any criminal negligence involved here it will be brought out in the investigation," he said.

"The entire area was engulfed with smoke, there wasn't too much flames," Jennings said. "It was very dense smoke and you could see it for a mile."

Jennings said the fire was believed to have started shortly before 8 p.m. in a laundry room at the rear of the residential wing of the L-shaped, one-story frame structure. "There's almost no question of that," he said. "Physical evidence shows that."

The fire was discovered by the nurse, Vaudine Lyon, 41, of nearby Hawley.

The coroner said Mrs. Lyon reported she had gone to check clothes in a dryer and found they were still damp.

"She said she then went back to the office area and a little later heard a noise like glass breaking," Jennings said.

"She then started down the hallway and that's when she saw the flames in the laundry."

"When she discovered the fire it was too late," he said. "She couldn't get down a hall. When she tried to use the phone it was dead. She went outside and tried to yell for help but it's in a rural area and when firemen arrived all they remember seeing was a person in a white uniform outside. She couldn't even get back inside because of the intense heat and smoke."

She was taken to Wayne County Memorial Hospital suffering from burns. The hospital listed her condition as satisfactory.

Jennings said all but one of the bodies were found in their rooms, in bed, in chairs and on the floor.

Another wing—jutting off to the right of the rooms and containing the dining room and kitchen, offices and the apartment of the owners—was virtually untouched by the flames.

The owners, Harvey and Joyce Geiger, were out when the fire began.

THE GENERATION RAP

—by Helen and Sue Bottel

THIS BROTHER KNOWS HOW TO HURT

Dear Sue and Helen:

The other day my brother and I were into a big fight and he said the reason I acted that way (it wasn't half as bad as HE acted) was because I was adopted and my real mother was retarded.

Later on he told me he was only kidding, and not to mention it to our folks or they'd get him.

I can't stop thinking about this, Helen and Sue. Every time I do something dumb and my folks look at me funny, I wonder if they're regretting me. That is, if they really did adopt me. The more I worry, the surer I am.

How can I find out without getting my brother in trouble? I really like him, most of the time. And besides, he'd stop letting me wear his T-shirts if I told on him.

—MARCIE

SUE'S VIEWS

Dear Marcie:

Welcome to the club! At one point or another in our kid-hood, almost all of us suspect we're adopted—usually because an older brother or sister or cousin or some other stinky person says so. It's a neat way to hurt without drawing blood (and getting clobbered by your parents), and I might even use it myself except I don't have a younger brother or sister.

My sister Kathy once told me I was left on the doorstep and my parents took me in because I was a cute baby (but then I grew up).

I was scared to come right out and ask Mom for two reasons: Kathy would sit on me and, more important, I might find it was true. So instead I "just happened" to get curious about marriage licenses and birth certificates (while looking through an old family picture album) and asked if I could see all of ours.

Try this, Marcie, and I think you'll discover you're a

"natural," just as I did. Most parents don't make a secret of adoption. —SUE

HELEN'S ANSWER

Dear Marcie:

...And five years later, at "remember when" time around the dinner table, the family will finally learn why you took a sudden interest in legal documents. By then it will be funny, even to you.

P.S. On the outside chance that your brother wasn't kidding, a discussion of birth certificates will probably lead into the story of your life—something your parents may have been waiting for the right moment to tell you. If this is the case, don't let that word "adopted" throw you. After all, you are especially chosen, therefore loved in a very special way! —HELEN

Dear Helen and Sue

I've been dating a girl from a different town and her parents don't know my background. They liked me fine until Karen's grandmother told them that a policeman friend told her that I had a record and was always in trouble. This isn't true, but it turned her folks against me, and now Karen isn't allowed to go out with me.

I found out it's another guy in my town with almost my same name who people are getting me mixed up with. We're even the same age, 16.

How can I convince Karen's folks I tried talking to them but still she can't see me.

INNOCENT

Dear Innocent

Why not get a signed statement from your friendly neighborhood cop, stating that you wear the white hat? You might need it for other occasions too. —SUE

Dear Innocent

Or prove you're the good guy by inviting Karen's folks over for a Sunday afternoon visit with your family. Good luck! —HELEN

Agnew Visits Father's Birthplace

By WALTER R. MEARS Associated Press Writer

GARGALIANO, Greece (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew came to the village of his ancestors today in an emotional homecoming that filled the narrow streets with welcoming townspeople.

He said he had learned that a man can go home again, "even to a home he has only heard of but never seen before."

The emotion of the moment could be read in Agnew's face as he stood before the people of Gargalianoi in the town's soccer stadium and paid tribute to his late father.

"If any individual is entitled to these honors I receive it is he," the vice president said. "He was one of you and he left these shores many years ago."

"It was on his knee that I learned of this town and of the principles of the early Hellenes. And I only wish that he could have returned with me today," Agnew said, his voice breaking for just an instant, "and yet I sense his presence here."

Agnew does not speak Greek. His remarks were translated sentence by sentence and the crowd applauded almost every line.

"I could see him breaking up near the end," Mrs. Agnew said later.

The vice president walked through a welcoming archway and drove to the village cemetery to place a flag-draped wreath at a family gravesite. He visited a white-walled orphanage that was a convent founded by his great aunt. Agnew gave bracelets to two young girls who lived there, and he patted them on their cheeks.

Rundown on Pittsburgh Celebration

PITTSBURGH, Pa. (AP) — The big World Series victory demonstration was a "jubilant celebration that got a little out of hand," the city's top cop says. The mayor calls it "an overexuberant celebration."

The 10-hour celebration in the downtown area that attracted an estimated 100,000 people left these results:

—Hospital treatment for 128 persons.

—Arrests of 96 persons.

—Vandalizing of downtown shops.

—Cars heavily damaged, many with caved in roofs.

—A fire engine stripped for equipment.

—A hotel forced to temporarily close.

—Tons of debris left in the streets.

Police Supt. Robert E. Colville called a news conference Monday to "set the record straight" about what happened. Mayor Peter Flaherty said "the national news media" blew things out of proportion.

Colville said stories about rapes and criminal assaults on downtown streets were fabricated by reporters. During the celebration Sunday night a police desk sergeant reported a dozen rapes.

Colville said the demonstration which erupted after the Pittsburgh Pirates' 2-1 seventh-game World Series baseball clincher over the Orioles at Baltimore was just a "jubilant celebration that got a little out of hand."

"But that happens whenever such a large crowd gathers," he added.

Hospital spokesmen confirmed Monday treating 128 minor injury cases and at least one case involving injury requiring hospitalization. All of the cases were related to the downtown celebration the

China Debate in Third Day Before UN

By SHIRLEY CHRISTIAN
Associated Press Writer
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The China debate moves into its third day today with scheduled speeches heavily weighted in favor of the Albanian proposal to seat the Peking government in the United Nations and expel Nationalist China.

As in the first two days of the debate, no dramatic switches are expected.

Though some nations on Monday and Tuesday indicated changes from their 1970 positions, the switches already had been announced or widely anticipated.

Among those expected to speak are the Soviet Union, France, Sweden, Denmark, Nepal, Southern Yemen and Chile, all supporting speeches from two cosponsors, Liberia and Switzerland, and probably Columbia and Uruguay.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is speeding consideration of President Nixon's Phase 2 economic measures, but is under pressure to set some limits on future authority to freeze wages and prices.

Nixon sent his proposals to the Capitol Tuesday, including an extension of control powers to April 30, 1973; legislative underpinning for the proposed Pay and Board and Price Commission, standby authority to control interest and dividends and a temporary special court of appeals.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said the House Banking Committee will open hearings Thursday—and will want to explore carefully some of the proposals. One question, he said, is whether Congress will grant a full year's extension of control powers, or set a time limit that

Tough New Pollution Bill Ready

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Public Works Committee has turned out a tough new pollution-fighting bill aimed at stopping waste discharge in all U.S. waters within 14 years.

Up to now, the aim of pollution-fighters has been to get industries to meet certain water purity standards. But the "no-discharge" measure would change the rules.

Chiefly written by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, the bill was reported out with unanimous committee approval Tuesday. It seeks to change tactics in the water-pollution battle and provides $14 billion in grants to the states to help do the job.

The legislation makes the administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency the chief enforcer, opens federal courts to citizen enforcement suits and establishes fines for violators of up to $50,000 a day.

The product of more than a year of testimony and study, the bill would end reliance on setting water quality standards as the chief means of pollution control.

Instead, it would establish as a national goal—to be met by 1985—the end of all polluting discharges into the nation's streams and lakes. The only exception would be polluters who prove conclusively they could not comply.

They, too, would be required, however, to employ the best pollution control technology at every phase of the program up to and after 1985.

"What this bill seeks to do is stress the state of the art and require that all polluters measure up to the best technology available, and finally that water quality standards be established that would stretch the state of the art," Muskie told newsmen.

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—A state Commerce Department survey shows that owners of horses and mules in Arkansas have frequently violated a state law that requires the assessment of animals for tax purposes.

Kiwanians Install New Officers

Ray Donathan, Kiwanis Lt. Governor, Division 24, Mo-Ark District, who makes his home in Hot Springs attended Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting for the specific purpose of installing the club's new officers for the 1971-72 Administrative Year which started October 1st.

Mr. Donathan outlined the duties of Club Directors, Secretary, Treasurer, 1st and 2nd Vice Presidents, and President, in that order and charged them with their respective responsibilities.

Secretary Teddy Jones, Treasurer Clifford Franks, Vice Presidents Forrest Singleton and David Stewart, and President Bill Butler were officially installed into their offices by Lt. Governor Donathan.

After the installation of the new officers Kiwanian Harry Hawthorne introduced Tom Duncan, executive officer of Hope Foods, Inc., one of Hope's newest industries.

At the present time Lady Hope canned chicken is the only product being produced, but Hope Foods, Inc. has other products in mind to be added at a later date.

Mr. Duncan explained that they were processing and canning whole chickens, their supply of fowl coming from "spent" layers. These layers are picked up at the laying houses and transported to the Hope Foods plant where they are hung, killed, scalded, defeathered, washed, singed, cleaned, canned and cooked. A Vatican Commission Attacks U.S.

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican commission attacked the U.S. government today for its recent unilateral changes in the financial system and voiced support for those who refuse to fight for the United States in Vietnam.

The Pontifical Commission on Justice and Peace, in a document submitted to the World Synod of Roman Catholic Bishops, urged the synod to deplore recent "monetary decisions taken by some rich countries which involve the well being and the development of 2 billion persons" in poor countries.

The 64-point message also called on the synod to support those who "refuse to participate in certain wars or certain acts of war, such as the bombardment of civil populations." It called for "understanding of those who, in the name of their faith or their conscience, refuse to bear arms."

Although neither clause mentioned the United States by name, its intent was clear.

The message also condemned colonialism and neocolonialism, racial discrimination, particularly in South Africa, and increasing armaments and nationalism.

The outline of recommended policy positions was submitted to the assembly of 209 bishops as they took up the second major topic in their month-long meeting, social justice. During the first two weeks of the synod the bishops discussed problems of the priesthood, recording massive opposition to the ordination of married men but strong support for acceptance of priests who marry as "laymen in good standing."

New Drive on to Cut Off War Money

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Anti-war senators mounted a new drive to cut off money for the Indochina war today after House leaders blocked a yes-or-no vote but claimed House rejection of a Senate six-month war deadline.

House-Senate conferees immediately set to work trying to compromise a $21-billion weapons bill containing the deadline after a fiery House battle Tuesday.

House Armed Services Chairman F. Edward Hebert, D-La., pessimistically predicted "a long, cold winter" before the conferees reach agreement.

The new Cooper-Church amendment to cut off all money for the war except funds needed to pull out U.S. forces was up for Senate Foreign Relations Committee consideration this afternoon.

Previous efforts similar to the one by Sens. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., and Frank Church, D-Idaho, to cut short the war by halting funds have been rejected by both House and Senate.

House Republican Whip Leslie C. Arends of Illinois sidetracked a direct vote on the Senate's six-month deadline Tuesday by moving that the House reject five Senate amendments including the war amendment purely on grounds they violate House rules requiring that amendments be pertinent.

HONESDALE, Pa. (AP) — Fifteen elderly persons, most in their 80s and 90s and many of them bedridden, perished Tuesday night in a fire that swept rapidly through a private nursing home near this tiny northeastern Pennsylvania community.

Wayne County Coroner Robert Jennings said he would ask for a state investigation.

All of the victims, trapped in their rooms on either side of a corridor, were believed to have died of smoke inhalation, Jennings said.

Only a licensed practical nurse, on duty alone at the time, escaped the blaze as it filled the residential wing of the Geiger Nursing Home with thick, black smoke.

"I intend to request the state Department of Labor and Industry and the Department of Welfare to conduct an immediate investigation at the state level," Jennings said.

"If there is any criminal negligence involved here it will be brought out in the investigation," he said.

"The entire area was engulfed with smoke, there wasn't too much flames," Jennings said. "It was very dense smoke and you could see it for a mile."

Jennings said the fire was believed to have started shortly before 8 p.m. in a laundry room at the rear of the residential wing of the L-shaped, one-story frame structure. "There's almost no question of that," he said. "Physical evidence shows that."

The fire was discovered by the nurse, Vaudine Lyon, 41, of nearby Hawley.

The coroner said Mrs. Lyon reported she had gone to check clothes in a dryer and found they were still damp.

"She said she then went back to the office area and a little later heard a noise like glass breaking," Jennings said.

"She then started down the hallway and that's when she saw the flames in the laundry."

"When she discovered the fire it was too late," he said. "She couldn't get down a hall. When she tried to use the phone it was dead. She went outside and tried to yell for help but it's in a rural area and when firemen arrived all they remember seeing was a person in a white uniform outside. She couldn't even get back inside because of the intense heat and smoke."

She was taken to Wayne County Memorial Hospital suffering from burns. The hospital listed her condition as satisfactory.

Jennings said all but one of the bodies were found in their rooms, in bed, in chairs and on the floor.

Another wing—jutting off to the right of the rooms and containing the dining room and kitchen, offices and the apartment of the owners—was virtually untouched by the flames.

The owners, Harvey and Joyce Geiger, were out when the fire began.

Suits Seek to Void Sale of School

PINE BLUFF, Ark. (AP)—A suit filed in Chancery Court here Tuesday seeks to void the sale by the White Hall School Board of a formerly all-black school.

Attorney John I. Purdie of Little Rock filed the suit on behalf of 34 plaintiffs, including Mayor W. S. Glasgow of Redfield.

The school, the Miller School, was sold recently to TenArk Inc., a Pine Bluff investment firm, for $16,500, which is $10,000 below the price at which the structure had been advertised for sale for five years.

Hempstead Farm Family of Year

MR. AND MRS. J. C. BURKE AND SON

Long hours of hard work have earned a Hempstead County family the right to compete for Arkansas Farm Family of the Year.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny C. Burke and son, Gil, of Route 2, Hope, Arkansas, is the family nominated to represent Hempstead County in the State Contest. The family was chosen to enter the State Contest by a committee composed of representatives from the Agricultural Extension Service, Soil Conservation Service, Agricultural Conservation and Stabilization Service, Farmers Home Administration, Citizens National Bank, First National Bank, Hope Star, KXAR Radio, Farm Bureau, and Hope-Hempstead Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Burke farms in the Crossroads Community on land of his own and some that he leases from Mrs. Wade Gilbert. His farming consists of beef cattle, soybeans, pasture, and hay crops.

He has developed some new pastures and is in the process of clearing up additional land, cross-fencing, and establishing more pastures to accommodate more cattle.

Prior to moving back to Hempstead County last year, the Burkes lived in Missouri where

Mr. Burke was an Area Representative for the Agricultural Division of the Standard Oil Company. He served in this capacity for the past eight years.

The Burkes are active in other community affairs. Mrs. Burke teaches business education at the Red River Vocational Technical School. They are active in the United Methodist Church. Mr. Burke teaches a sixth grade Sunday School Class.

Among the many accomplishments for this year's Farm Family is a new house constructed during the winter months on East Seventh Street just off the Rosston Road in the City of Hope.

FTC Begins Hearings on Advertising

By MIKE SHANAHAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer advocates, television producers, psychiatrists and toy makers are among witnesses scheduled for what the Federal Trade Commission says will be the most comprehensive examination ever made of advertising and its impact on Americans.

FTC officials emphasized that "we're not out to prove anything against anybody," in the 20 days of hearings opening today.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., chairman of a House subcommittee on regulatory agencies, is leadoff witness. He'll be followed by Warren Braren, associate director of Consumers Union, and Howard Bell, president of the American Advertising Federation.

Everlyn Sarson, of Action for Children's Television in Boston; Robert Choate, who has created a fuss about the nutritional value of breakfast foods, and Norman Cousins, editor of Saturday Review, will testify later.

In prepared testimony, Dingell said the advertising industry has failed to regulate itself. Exorbitant advertising outlays by large corporations have given them an unfair competitive advantage over small business, he said.

Besides that, Dingell objected to what he called "idea" advertising as opposed to a straight product sell.

"Increasingly, we are being exposed to issue-oriented advertisements placed in both the printed and electronic media by both large manufacturers and powerful vested interest groups," he said. "These ads are not so concerned with selling products as they are with selling images."

Robert Pitofsky, the FTC's director of consumer affairs, said advertising men also will spend several days explaining the inside story behind ads of all kinds. Another few days of testimony will be devoted to effects of TV ads on children.

Pitofsky said the FTC simply doesn't know enough about an area it has the responsibility and authority to regulate, especially during an era when television so strongly dominates the industry.

"If we're going to become more and more active in this field a complementary body of responsible information must be made available."

"It is not an industry that has been closely analyzed or examined by academia or anyone else," he said.

Newspaper Is Backing Friday

MALVERN, Ark. (AP) — The Malvern Daily Record, in an editorial, has come out in support of the possible appointment of Herschel H. Friday Jr. of Little Rock to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Friday has been mentioned as a possible nominee to the court. Both Arkansas and the United States would be fortunate in having Mr. Friday named to his high position, the Daily Record said. President Nixon has said he thought all sections of the nation should be represented on our high court. The South is without representation on this high court and in reality has been without a representative for a long, long time.

Vote Near to Award Alaska Natives

By JOHN KAMPS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is nearing a vote on a bill awarding Alaska natives $25 million and 40 million acres to settle aboriginal land claims.

The bill, opened to full House discussion Tuesday, brought amendments backed by conservation and wildlife groups, including one reserving 50 million acres of Alaskan land for use as national parks, wildlife refuges and scenic areas.

The main bill, a compromise of measures introduced over a 25-year period, calls for cash payments totaling $425 million over a 10-year period, and $500 million in royalties from mineral production on Alaska public lands. These are coupled with land grants of 40 million acres for village expansion.

The bill was written by the House Interior Committee and is similar to one awaiting Senate consideration.

The key amendment, by Reps. Morris K. Udall and John P. Saylor, would direct the secretary of interior to study the 50 million acres and report to Congress within five years on which lands would be designated for public use.

Opponents contended, and Udall denied, that the amendment would interfere with land selections by the natives and the state, and with construction of the trans-Alaska oil pipeline.

Udall said land selections could continue and his amendment would not prevent granting a federal permit for the proposed 800-mile Alaska pipeline linking the North Slope oil fields and Gulf of Alaska.

Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., sponsored an amendment to restrict native land selections in Alaskan wildlife refuges.

Proponents of the bill, including Interior Committee Chairman Wayne N. Aspinall, D-Colo., said the measure offers a fair settlement of native claims, which have been recognized for 104 years. Aspinall noted that administration recommendations over the years ranged from $7.2 million and a few million acres to the current $1 billion and 40 million acres. The first recommendation of $7.2 million is what the United States paid Russia for Alaska in 1867.

Oil discoveries on the North Slope contributed to the escalation of land values and the higher compensation offer, the House was told.

Lord Snowdon Traveler in Pennsylvania

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Lord Snowdon, brother-in-law of Queen Elizabeth, is traveling through the Pennsylvania Dutch country on a photographic assignment for a national magazine.

Snowdon, husband of Princess Margaret, refused to acknowledge his identity Tuesday to photographers or to a woman shopper in a market who recognized him from photographs.

"It's unfortunate this got out," said Donovan Smith, a local businessman and director of the Pennsylvania Dutch Tourist Bureau which helped arrange the visit.

"He's a real nice guy and he wanted to work under cover," Smith said. He and other members of the tourist bureau spent about eight hours with Snowdon Monday, acquainting him with the area "and some of the back roads."

"Once he knew where everything was, he wanted to be on his own," Smith said.

Helen Markel, art director of McCall's, confirmed that Snowdon was in the area on an assignment for the magazine. She declined to say what the nature of the assignment was or how long he would be in the area.

Kosygin Seems Bearing Up Well Under Strain of Canadian Hecklers

OTTAWA (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin seems to be bearing up well under the strain of constant harassment by demonstrators. So, apparently, is the public in Canada's capital.

Despite the uproar produced by protesters, the people of Ottawa have managed to appear completely indifferent to it all. But surely there would have been no such indifference if Kosygin were the same sort of diplomatic barnstormer as his predecessor, the late Nikita S. Khrushchev.

Had it been Khrushchev subjected to such harassment, the sparks would have flown in all directions and people would have turned out in droves to watch in awe.

Harassing Kosygin seems somehow like kicking an in-offensive old grandpa in the shins. He has none of the dynamism that made Khrushchev a magnet for crowds. When anybody heckled Khrushchev, as happened during his stormy tour of the United States in 1959, Khrushchev heckled back with scorching blasts of peasant wit.

Kosygin's personality and background are unsuited to that sort of performance. He came up through the ranks of stolid Communist party "apparatchiks"—functionaries who plodded through their duties faithfully.

Kosygin did get one small break Tuesday night as he was driven to the National Arts Center, only a short distance from his hotel, for a gala concert in his honor.

As usual, demonstrators were gathered, this time dominated by young Maoists and assorted fringe rebels.

The security men had learned their lesson and played a successful game of hide-and-seek with the young protesters. The motorcade avoided the main entrance and entered the building through a parking area, leaving the protesters with nobody to protest against.

But the slings and arrows will continue to be aimed at him for the rest of his eight-day trip through Canada. The tour takes him to Montreal Thursday and thereafter to Edmonton, Vancouver and Toronto. Demonstration organizers vow they'll give him no rest.

Earlier Tuesday Kosygin made a camouflaged attack on President Nixon's economic policies which have bruised Canadian feelings. The Soviet leader did not mention the would permit earlier review.

The Senate Banking Committee set Nov. 1 for the beginning of hearings. Its second-ranking Democratic member, Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin, said it should consider writing into the law a requirement that previously negotiated step increase in wages should go into effect after the current 90-day freeze expires Nov. 13.

Proxmire, who is also chairman of the Senate-House Economic Committee, said he is studying means of exempting workers below the poverty level from any provisions that would prevent their receiving pay increases.

He said Congress should not now extend freeze authority beyond April 30, 1972, but should reconsider the matter next spring.

However, in discussing the request for a full year's extension with newsmen, Treasury Undersecretary Charles Walker said this period is not intended to indicate the length of time controls will remain in effect. He said they will be continued as long as necessary to break inflation and make gains toward bringing down the cost of living.

In addition to the extension, Nixon asked that the heads of the two key boards, still to be named, be made federal officials with subpoena powers.

He proposed new civil penalties for violations—$2,500 in addition to the $5,000 fine provided by present law.

His proposed court of appeals would consist of three or more federal judges, named by the U.S. chief justice.

The proposed legislation also would partly address already taken under the freeze, including orders issued by the Federal Reserve Board.

Large Banks Cut Prime Lending Rate

NEW YORK (AP) — Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York cut its prime lending rate from 6 per cent to 5½ today and was followed quickly by other big banks.

Announcing identical cuts were Chase Manhattan Bank of New York, the nation's third largest bank, Citizens & Southern National Bank of Atlanta and the Bank of California.

The prime rate is the interest charged by commercial banks on loans to their best corporate customers. It had been at 6 per cent since July.

Morgan Guaranty said the reduction "reflects market conditions, including a less than seasonal increase in loan demand and a decline in cost of funds."

While the prime rate applies mainly to corporate borrowings, it exerts an influence on home mortgages and automobile financing charges.

On Tuesday, President Nixon submitted legislation to Congress to give him authority to control interest rates. Interest rates were not placed under control when Nixon imposed a wage-price freeze last Aug. 15.

Morgan Guaranty's action came at a time when the possibility of shifting from a fixed prime rate to a floating rate pegged to interest rates in the open market is under discussion by leading bankers.

An effort to override Arends and clear the way for a direct vote on the six-month deadline was rejected 215 to 192—and the White House and House leaders interpreted that as rejection of the deadline.

Deputy White House press secretary Gerald Warren told reporters President Nixon "appreciates the majority support and vote of confidence for his initiatives for peace through negotiation as represented by the 215-192 vote today."

Hebert called the vote a mandate for himself and other House conferees not to accept Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield's amendment for U.S. war withdrawal in six months if American prisoners are released.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC pulled together a very pleasant hour of circus acts for a Tuesday night special.

The circus was shot in Copenhagen and concentrated on activity in a rather small ring. There was the usual assortment of acrobats, jugglers, trapeze and wire artists. There were also dog and horse acts, but since Danish law forbids wild animal acts, the producers sent a camera crew to Italy for shots of a tamer and his tigers.
There was the usual brassy music and drum rolls. And Ed McMahon was around providing some language translations. Almost anybody who spoke English could have done the job since Big Ed was disguised in a clown outfit.
"Cannon" revisited after a month reveals that the series still specializes in corpses. There were two killings before midshow and six more by the end.
Our hero, that tough private investigator, will be a mass of scar tissue by season's end. He was shot in the leg in the first show and this week took a bullet in his arm.

Aside from the excessive violence, the CBS hour stacks up as about the slickest, tightest series among the new action shows. Considerable imagination is shown in the use of location backgrounds, infinitely more effective than the usual studio back-lot shots.
The most recent episode had Cannon on the trail of some robbers and $900,000. It led him to a desolate ghost town whose few residents just wanted him to go away, dead or alive and preferably the former. The intrepid private eye blew his assignment: He shot down a small plane in which the heavies were escaping with the loot, and the money burned in the crash.

"Marcus Welby, M.D." on ABC launched a two-part drama, the story of a girl with a bad heart and a widower father too protective of her. The father shot and killed a neighbor boy who, in response to an appeal by the girl, had come to see her late at night.

Dr. Welby didn't have much to do except look worried and give the girl injections. Even an operating room scene with the dying boy seemed padding since the story was melodrama and a departure for the doctor show.

At fade-out, Owen Marshall, counselor-at-law, had arrived from his own ABC series to stand by as his old friend, the father, was charged with homicide. The trial will take place and the story concluded Thursday night back on the lawyer show.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

DON'T MARRY INTO THE BUSINESS

Dear Helen:
I met a man at our local drug store and we have marked this place as our love spot, as that's where I fell in love with him. He is handsome, smooth and wonderful, but there's a problem.

He has another girl working for him (prostitution), which he says is strictly business, and he'll only stay with her until he makes enough money to build our future. There aren't any jobs around now, so he takes what he can get.

I don't want to start married life on money made that way, but he thinks of it as just another night's work.

He's really not what you might think. He treats me like a queen and swears if I marry him he'll give me the best. But that word (pimp) sounds terrible even if it's just temporary. Please don't jump to conclusions, but tell me what are my chances. —SO MUCH IN LOVE
Dear So:

If you choose a pimp, you have every chance of marrying into the business. And in his line of work, queens become slaves overnight.

Jump on MY conclusions, and ride out of his life fast! —H.

Dear Helen:
Once upon a time I was an idealist. I was going to go out and change the world, free it from fear and prejudice. What a laugh!

As soon as I had to deal with people instead of theories I learned that ideals formed in a comfortable middle class environment seldom survive outside of that environment. Maybe it is a case of too little too late, or the fact that only violence makes headlines, but people have stopped working and started building walls again. Racial pride (essential to self-respect) has given way to racial separatism—an assertion of superiority. And it seems that people are working harder than ever to instill fear in one another.

Black is cool, red is hip, yellow brainy, brown misunderstood, but white is not where it's at. We are supposed to feel ashamed—to be so constantly aware of the sins of our ancestors that we can't relate as human beings to those of different color.

Because I am white, I have been bullied, insulted, intimidated, accused, and generally made a fool of on several occasions. I understand the anger and resentment minority races feel for the injustices they have suffered at the hands of some white people, but such misdirected sense of revenge can only intensify the problem.

Any movement motivated by hatred will end in self-destruction. When will people learn that fighting fire with fire only makes for a bigger fire—until everything is consumed? —CYNIC

Dear Cynic:
And when will the majority of people start congratulating themselves on how far we've come rather than mourning (and fighting) over how much possibly far we have yet to go? Cynicism is an easy cop-out. It takes guts and a tremendous amount of work these days to be an educated optimist, and you can start (as well all should) by becoming a true TALKING friend with one person who looks or thinks differently than you do. And how much better if he is the one you assumed could never be your friend!

Good race relations can't be legislated. They grow with good one-to-one relationships between people. Reach out and be a part of the solution, Cynic. It's much more fun than wringing your hands over the problem. —H.

British Queen to Visit Turks

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Queen Elizabeth's visit to Turkey seems to have brought a temporary halt to political feuding among the country's leaders.

Premier Nihat Erim told newsmen after the British queen arrived Monday that feuding factions had "frozen" the political crisis until she leaves Oct. 25.

After the royal party leaves, he said, "either we will reach a compromise or I will resign."

Erim and his army-backed government and conservative politicians have been involved in a running dispute over the premier's proposed radical social and economic reforms.

More Youths Are Smoking, Report Says

By MARTHA COLE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government reports a significant increase in teen-age cigarette smokers at a time when the number of adults with the habit decreased sharply.

Compiling the latest figures, it estimates the number of smokers between 12 and 18 years of age at four million in January, 1970, up one million in two years when the population increase for the group was less than a million.

The report makes no effort to explain the increase but analyzes the characteristics of teen-agers who have and have not become regular smokers and says:

"While there are many factors in the environment of a child that influence his taking up, or not taking up the smoking habit, the one that has by far the most influence is the smoking behavior of those around him."

The lowest level of smoking is found among teen-agers who live in households where both parents are present and neither smokes, and who have older brothers and sisters, none of whom smoke, the report says. In such a situation, it says, 4.2 per cent have become regular smokers.

In families with at least one parent and one older brother or sister who smoke, 24.9 per cent of the teen-agers also smoke.

The report was prepared by the National Clearinghouse for Smoking and Health, a branch of the Health, Education and Welfare Department. It is based on surveys made in January 1968 and January 1970.

It estimates that in 1970, 18.5 per cent of boys 12-18 were regular smokers, up from 14.7 per cent in 1968. For girls, the figure is 11.9 per cent in 1970 and 8.4 per cent in 1968.

The Clearinghouse figures for the adult population show 42 per cent of the men smoked in 1970, compared to 51.9 per cent in 1966; and 31 per cent of the

The increase in teen-age smoking occurred for both boys and girls, in every age group and in all areas.

New Actor Is Really King Size

By GENE HANDSAKER
Associated Press Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — He ducks going through doorways. He sleeps northeast by southeast in a king-size bed. At 7-foot-2 and 300 pounds, Dick Kiel is beyond doubt Hollywood's biggest actor.

"You can't make the whole world fit you, you have to adjust to the world," says the soft-spoken gentle giant, philosophical about his size.

As for acting:
"My size was a big help getting started. Maybe it's a bit of a hindrance at times, but I like being big."

Then, with a grin crinkling massive features: "Of course, I play a lot of heavies."

His roles have included "Russian spies, the bad guy in Westerns, the dumb-bunny type who kills people and doesn't really know what he's doing. I used to resent playing demented characters, then began to realize that people enjoy them."

A role as a seaman who tucked two people under his arms and tossed them into a trash bin in TV's late "Man from Uncle" started him playing, he says, "ordinary heavies." That is, not demented. "It was my first break in TV."

Due for release in February is his best movie break yet, "Deadline Miles," with Alan Arkin.

"It's a key part, a truck driver," says Dick. "Three of us play a dirty trick on Arkin, and I have a good scene with him." The three pour gasoline on Arkin and threaten to set him afire.

Born in Detroit to average-size parents, Dick came with them to Los Angeles when he was 8 and started his extraordinary growth at 14.

Ronnie Jones Rated Best Defensively

By HARRY KING

Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas defensive end Ronnie Jones covered as much ground as a middle linebacker last Saturday against Texas.

He made 14 unassisted tackles, have five assists and recovered a fumble.

For his performance in the Razorbacks' 31-7 victory, Jones was named The Associated Press' Defensive Player of the Week in the Southwest Conference.

"In my 10 years at Arkansas, I cannot recall a defensive end figuring in as many plays as did Ronnie Jones against Texas," said Arkansas assistant coach Lon Farrell. "Fourteen unassisted tackles is almost unbelievable for an end. It sounds more like a middle linebacker who has a chance to make plays on both sides."

Jones and his defense cohorts were so effective that Texas' vaunted Wishbone-T attack netted only 140 yards on the ground, far below the Longhorns' average of 319.8 yards in a game in their first four games.

Arkansas dared Texas to throw, putting nine men on the line of scrimmage in anything less than an obvious passing situation. This alignment supplied Jones and the other linemen with plenty of secondary support against the triple option.

"The adrenalin was really flowing," Jones said. "We got the Texas quarterback (Donnie Wigginton) a little gun-shy. Everyone was after the ball carrier and he had indecisions and Texas' linemen just couldn't block us all."

"We were a young team and it was the first chance at Texas for a lot of the players," Jones said. "It's really amazing how bad everyone wanted it (the victory)."

Arkansas has not beaten Texas since Jones arrived at Fayetteville in 1967. "It would have been bad to have been here five years and never have beaten Texas," Jones said.

Ferguson Is College Back of Week

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "The single greatest performance by a quarterback against quality opposition I've ever seen."

Wouldn't you say that's a Back of the Week recommendation? The quote comes from Coach Frank Broyles of Arkansas and the object of his affection is Joe Ferguson, who passed, ran and directed the Razorbacks to their so-called Revenge at the Rock (Little Rock) Saturday, a 31-7 whumping of arch-rival Texas.

All the 6-foot-2, 175-pound junior quarterback from Shreveport, La., did was complete 14 of 24 passes for 249 yards and three touchdowns and run 10 yards for another score, which happened to be the one that broke a 7-7 tie and put Arkansas ahead to stay.

For that performance, Ferguson was named National College Back of the Week by The Associated Press.

"Some of the pro scouts commented to me that he has a quick release similar to Joe Namath," Broyles said. "They're startled when they see him throw the ball. One scout told me Ferguson's the most accurate college passer he's ever seen."

"His poise is tremendous. We find that in a dropback passing quarterback today, reading the defense is not enough. A passer can't stop and throw. He has to be ready to shift his weight, to have a quick enough release without having to take a step. Ferguson is a master at it."

Despite the rain which fell through most of Saturday's game, Ferguson threw scoring passes of five and three yards to Bobby Nichols and 37 to Mike Reppond. The loss snapped Texas' 21-game Southwest Conference winning streak.

With 86 completions in 143 attempts for 1,237 yards and nine touchdowns—Ferguson is connecting at a brilliant 60 per cent clip, one of the highest in the country.

"If we threw more short passes his percentage would be a lot higher," said Broyles. Ferguson doesn't mind throwing—long or short. During Saturday's second-half downpour, he told Broyles: "Coach, I can throw a wet ball. Don't let up. A wet ball doesn't bother me."

In gaining Back of the Week honors, Ferguson beat out Toledo quarterback Chuck Ealey, Wake Forest running back Larry Hopkins, Michigan State running back Eric Allen, Auburn quarterback Pat Sullivan, Oregon State running back Dave Schilling and Oklahoma quarterback Jack Mildren.

Porkers Go Through Work in Downpour

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — The Arkansas Razorbacks went through a two-hour workout in the rain Tuesday. It was the first practice since Saturday's victory over the Texas Longhorns.

The Porkers began learning assignments for this week's game against North Texas State.

"There is not time to look ahead any further than North Texas State," said Coach Frank Broyles. "We know from experience you can't do that."

Broyles recalled the tough time Arkansas had with North Texas State in 1968 when the Porkers barely managed to squeeze out a 17-15 victory.

ASU Trainer Impressed With Players

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State Coach Bill Davidson said following practice Tuesday that he was impressed with the Indians' execution and enthusiasm.

Davidson said the Tribe's passing game was the "highlight" of the practice. The Indians are preparing for this week's game at War Memorial Stadium in Little Rock with Abilene Christian.

"We looked good throwing the ball and I feel also that the defense had a very good practice," Davidson said.

Court May Settle Long Fight by Flood

WASHINGTON (AP) — Curt Flood's two-year fight to make baseball subject to antitrust laws may be settled finally at the middle of next season by the U.S. Supreme Court.

For the first time since 1953 the high court agreed Tuesday to hear arguments on a legal attack on the structure of professional baseball.

In 1922 the court decided baseball is essentially a sport and not a business. In 1953 the court said any change in baseball's status should be up to Congress.

Flood's case may be delayed by two court vacancies, but a final decision is expected by June. Former Justice Arthur J. Goldberg will argue for the one-time all-star centerfielder at a hearing tentatively set for mid-January.

Flood and Goldberg objected in their suit mainly to the "reserve system," which binds a player to the team that holds his contract.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn and other baseball officials have argued successfully in lower courts that it should be up to Congress, and not the courts, to make any change in baseball's status.

Kuhn said Tuesday that the court's decision to hear arguments "does not affect the merits of the case. We have complete confidence in the fairness of the court's ultimate decision."

Richard Moss, counsel for the Players' Association, said: "We are very gratified that the court has seen fit to review the case on its merits."

Flood filed suit after the St. Louis Cardinals traded him in 1969 to the Philadelphia Phillies. He refused to report and sat out the 1970 season while two lower federal courts rejected his claim.

He played briefly with the Washington Senators last spring but left the team at mid-season and is believed to be living in Majorca, Spain.

In their appeal to the high court, Flood and Goldberg argued that a series of events since 1953 calls for a re-examination of the two previous decisions.

Nebraska, Sooners Top Picks

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — This week it looks like the Associated Press' top ten teams will keep on winning.

Nebraska at Oklahoma State—State's Floyd Gass says the Cowpokes will "play well against Nebraska," but he didn't say which year. The fine sophomores may be in over their heads against the Cornhuskers, ranked by the AP as the best team in the nation. Gass isn't from Brooklyn but wait 'til next year, anyway.

NEBRASKA.

Oklahoma at Kansas State—Everything may be up to date in Kansas City but things aren't even up to last year at Kansas State, when the Wildcats knocked off ... OKLAHOMA.

Michigan at Minnesota—Illinois just got through playing Ohio State and Michigan. Now it's Minnesota's turn to tangle with Michigan and Ohio State. MICHIGAN.

Houston at Alabama—Bear Bryant is running Bill Yeoman's triple option disguised as the Wishbone. An upset is possible, such as last year's 30-21 'Bama victory over the favored Cougars. Surprise, surprise? Nope. ALABAMA.

Clemson at Auburn—Clemson has come alive the last two weeks but the reincarnation has to stop somewhere. Hold That Tiger is the theme, since both teams are nicknamed Tigers. Doing the legal holding ... ALABAMA.

Southern California at Notre Dame—The Irish were 10-1 last season and the 1 was named Southern Cal to the tune of 38-28. It cost Notre Dame the national championship and, even though there's a freeze on, the Trojans will pay through the nose. NOTRE DAME.

Texas Christian at Penn State—The Christians and the Lions? Have mercy ... PENN STATE.

Wisconsin at Ohio State—Badgers are on the rise and Buckeyes are hurting. That, however, is when Woody Hayes is most dangerous. Besides, how many times in one year can the Buckeyes lose in Columbus? OHIO STATE.

Arizona State at New Mexico—Both teams may have been looking ahead last week to this Western Athletic Conference showdown when the Sun Devils lost to Oregon State and New Mexico tied San Jose State. Frank Kush is one of the winningest coaches around. Add one win. ARIZONA STATE.

Wake Forest at North Carolina—Bill Dooley was awed by Notre Dame's defense last week. This week he gets a taste of offense as supplied by ... WAKE FOREST.

Oregon State at Washington—The Beavers have had their fling and the Huskies have had their slump. WASHINGTON.

Canucks Coach Has Praise for Defense

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Coach Hal Laycoe of the expansion Vancouver Canucks of the National Hockey League had praise for a tight defensive effort Tuesday night after the Canucks won their second straight road game by downing the St. Louis Blues 3-1.

"Our defense, with the exception of the first period at California has been playing well. We knew we had to cut down on our goals against us when we went to camp this year, and we probably stressed defense a little more," Laycoe said.

Vancouver took advantage of first and second period scores by Mike Corrigan and a second period goal by former Blues' rejected his claim.

He played briefly with the Washington Senators last spring but left the team at mid-season and is believed to be living in Majorca, Spain.

In their appeal to the high court, Flood and Goldberg argued that a series of events since 1953 calls for a re-examination of the two previous decisions.

They said other sports have been put under antitrust laws, that baseball franchises have been switched frequently and that national television is a source of mounting revenue.

Fearless Forecaster

Egad, friends, you no doubt noticed that most of the pigskin forecasters suffered through a dismal day last Saturday as the dope bucket was booted willy-nilly over the autumnal landscape.

Nevertheless, your fearless forecaster posted the enviable record of correctly picking the winners in all of the contests involving the top-10-rated clubs, including the defeats of 5th-ranked Colorado and 10th-rated Texas—har-rumph!

Space doesn't permit me to repeat the forecast of the contests involving the top-10 teams but you'll remember we gave you Oklahoma to whip 5th-ranked Colorado and unranked Arkansas to smack 10th-rated Texas, and that's exactly what happened.

But enough—kaff-kaff—for ancient history!

This week's headlines promise some thrilling action with the No. 1 collegiate

Texas Band to File Complaint

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—Vincent DeNino, director of the Texas Longhorn Band, said Tuesday that a complaint would be filed with Southwest Conference officials as a result of the alleged slugging Saturday of a bandman by an Arkansas fan.

The band was in Little Rock for the Texas-Arkansas game, which the Razorbacks won 31-7. DeNino said a "large, belligerent drunk" kept trying to break through the band's lines as it was marching out of the stadium after the game.

Randy Fisher, a cymbal player, said, "I just put up a cymbal to brush him off. He hit me solid in the right eye with his hand."

Stitches were taken below Fisher's eye at a Little Rock hospital.

DeNino also said Texas Coach Darrell Royal was barely missed with a thrown bottle.

"In all the years I've been director here, we've given visiting bands the use of our practice fields, soft drinks, side-line markers and anything else they needed. But we go to Arkansas and in return their fans spit at us and throw whisky bottles," DeNino said.

DeNino said the band had never been mistreated except at Arkansas.

Arkansas athletic director George Cole said Tuesday that the alleged incident was "unfortunate." He said it was Texas' privilege to file a complaint if it wanted.

However, he said regarding the spitting and bottle throwing, "They'll have to prove that to me."

He said Texas received the same courtesies from Arkansas that all visiting schools received and that the Razorback band received when it goes to Texas.

Walt Alston Pre-Season Cellar Team Now Leads Dist. 7AA Conference as No. 1

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Venerable Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers, who says, "I can't think of anything I'd rather do than manage," was named today as The Associated Press' Manager of the Year in the National League for the fifth time.

The 59-year-old Alston, in his 18th season as manager of the Dodgers, piloted Los Angeles to a second-place finish in the NL's West Division. Los Angeles wound up one game behind San Francisco after trailing the Giants by eight games going into the final month of the season.

Alston, whose 18 consecutive seasons with the same club is tops among active major league managers, received 72 votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Charlie Fox, in his first full season as San Francisco manager, was a close second with 65 votes. Danny Murtaugh, the 1970 Manager of the Year who led the Pittsburgh Pirates to this year's World Series championship was third with 57 votes. The voting was based only on regular season performances.

The modest, effable Alston, however, paid tribute to Murtaugh's effort. "That guy in Pittsburgh did quite a job," said Alston from his home in Dartmouth, Ohio.

But the Dodgers' pilot also was grateful to receive the award again. "It's quite an honor," he said. "I really appreciate it."

Alston also was named NL Manager of the Year in 1935, 1959, 1965 and 1966, all seasons in which he guided the Dodgers to the league championship. He also took them to the NL title in 1956 and 1963.

Asked about the Dodgers' near-miss this year, he said, "We were all disappointed that we didn't win after getting so

One might still remember last Friday night when David Johnson scored the only touchdown of the game with 2:04 left in play to give the Hope Bobcats a 6-3 victory over the Arkadelphia Badgers—but this week one must think about the Magnolia Panthers.

Magnolia, the cinderella team of the conference leads the pack with a perfect district slate, except for the tie with Camden early in the season. Pre-season picks expected the Panthers deep in the cellar, but look where they are-leading the whole group.

Some people may still remember last year's hard luck game with both teams sliding around on a mud covered field, Hope finally winning on a blocked punt in the second quarter when Rusty Quillen picked the pigskin up at the Magnolia 22 yard line and beat everyone to the end zone. Neither team was able to amount real offensive drives into the enemy territory, except on turnovers.

All of this means exactly nothing towards Friday nights game except that Magnolia will be out for revenge of the last two years and the Bobcats will be out for a Homecoming victory and to stay in the middle of the 7AA Conference race. Everyone knows that a loss would certainly eliminate the Cats.

Hope had a good workout close. But you've got to give the players credit, from the youngest rookie to the oldest veteran. Nobody quit. They all gave 100 per cent, and that's all I could ask."

Alston, a former school teacher, has been working on one-year contracts since he succeeded Charlie Dressen as Dodgers' manager in 1954. Apparently that's the way he wants it. "I'm satisfied, and I hope they are," he said.

Dick Williams of the Oakland Athletics was named earlier in the week as American League Manager of the Year.

Tuesday afternoon with spirits high, preparing for the Homecoming game. The Cats worked mostly on offense with a little defensive work included.

Thursday night the Bobkittens travel to Magnolia for a rough contest with a possible pre-warmup for Friday night's game in Hammons Stadium. Hope has been improving each week and the offense has looked better every week. With the fine Kitten defense leading the way, a hard fought game is expected to yield the Kittens as winners.

Commissioner Threatens Stars, Manager

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — American Basketball Association Commissioner Jack Dolph threatened the Utah Stars and General Manager Vince Boryla with suspensions and disenfranchisement for Boryla's criticism of Dolph at a news conference Tuesday.

Boryla, commenting on Dolph's decision to fine the Stars $5,000 and a first-round draft choice for signing former Memphis guard James Jones, said, "Dolph isn't qualified to run a kindergarten class."

Dolph said Boryla's conduct may have been detrimental to the ABA and threatened to invoke sections of the ABA by-laws for disciplinary action.

Dolph said the bylaws allow him to levy fines, set suspensions, cancel contracts and forfeit the franchise of any ABA club or member for conduct detrimental to the league or professional basketball.

Dolph also turned down Boryla's request for a hearing, saying, "the Jones' decision is final."

Boryla said the Stars would not pay the fine until Dolph granted a hearing on the matter.

Dolph said his decision was made "after a lengthy hearing involving extensive testimony and the production of documentary evidence."

Trevino and Casper Head Field

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Lee Trevino and a determined Billy Casper head a bulky field of 156 players as the pro golf tour resumes after a three week break Thursday with the $150,000 Kaiser International Open golf tournament.

Trevino, who suddenly emerged as the dominant figure in the game this year, was scheduled to make a late arrival at the Silverado Country Club course, but the slump-ridden Casper showed up early to get in some practice rounds.

Jack Nicklaus, the No. 1 money winner with over $207,000 this season, Arnold Palmer and South African Gary Player all are skipping this event. Thus, the flamboyant Trevino is easily the No. 1 gate attraction for this event in the northern California wine country.

And he makes no bones about his aim of overtaking Nicklaus for the money title. Trevino has $197,000.

"I think if I could win the money title, I'd have a good chance of winning the Hicock belt (as the professional athlete of the year). That's something I'd really like to have," he said earlier this season.

But Trevino has had his troubles in recent months. He had some personal problems, was sidelined for a while with an emergency appendectomy and has won less than $1,000 official money since making his lightning sweep of the United States, Canadian and British Open titles.

The 40-year-old Casper, Player of the Year in 1970, hasn't won so far this season. It's the first time since 1956 that a year has gone by without a Casper victory.

"I'm probably a little more determined than I've been in the past," said Casper, winner of 44 tour titles including two U.S. Open championships. He lost in a playoff for the 1969 Kaiser title and missed the cut last year.

Big George Archer, winner of two titles and more than $100,000 this season, is another major threat. Archer also lost in a playoff in the 1969 Kaiser and hasn't finished lower than sixth the last six times he has played in this event.

Other standouts include Miller Barber, Tom Weiskopf and young Jerry Heard, all $100,000 winners this season.

Also on hand for the 72-hole chase for the $30,000 first prize are Masters champion Charles Coody, Frank Beard, Tom Shaw, Dave Eichelberger, Johnny Miller and J.C. Snead, hero of the United States' Ryder Cup triumph over Britain and a two-time winner this season.

Discusses Forage, Pasture

Shown above is Dr. David Ibsen, University of Arkansas Extension Service Veterinarian, as he spoke to the Hempstead County Beef Cattleman's Association last week at the Diamond Cafe. Dr. Ibsen's talk centered around possible toxic conditions that may appear in forage and pasture plants. Some of these conditions included ergot of Dallis grass, prussic acid poisoning in Johnson grass, and other members of the sorghum family, grass tetany and nitrate poisoning.

Dave Cummings, president of the association, announced that the next regular meeting would be held in January.

Penn State Player Is Honored

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (AP)—Penn State defensive end Bruce Bannon, very nearly a straight-A student, doesn't stop using his head when he snaps on a football helmet.

Just before halftime of Saturday's game with Syracuse, for instance, Bannon blocked a punt and started after the bouncing ball, but saw linebacker Gary Gray was closer to it. So he wiped out the punter with a block while Gary Gray scooped the ball up and raced 21 yards for a touchdown.

That gave Penn State a 24-0 halftime lead and the unbeaten Nittany Lions went on to a 31-0 victory.

"We're trained every day at practice that the closest man to the ball picks it up and everybody else books for somebody to block," said Bannon, named college Lineman of the Week by the Associated Press.

The 6-foot-4, 216-pound junior from Rockaway, N.J., contributed 11 tackles, according to statisticians, though Penn State coaches thought he had more. Three of the stops came behind the line of scrimmage.

"We have pride in our defense," said the geological science major whose lowest marks have been two B's.

"I like the challenge of playing against bigger people," he said. "Our whole defense is based more on quickness than on size. Many of us are converted backs or ends."

Says Penn State Coach Joe Paterno: "With just normal improvement Bruce could be one of the best defensive ends around. Defensive end was a new position for him last year but he is more comfortable there now."

Other contenders for Lineman of the Week honors included defensive tackle Tommy Yearout of Auburn, linebacker Mike Taylor of Michigan, guard Jim McCollum of Kentucky, linebacker Paul Kaliaides of Columbia, linebacker Mike Mullen of Tulane, defensive tackle Larry Jacobson of Nebraska, linebacker Keith Schroeder of Iowa State and defensive end Ronnie Jones of Arkansas

Stars Picking Up Where They Left Off

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Utah Stars, who won the American Basketball Association championship last season, are picking up where they left off.

The Stars, boasting a new coach this year in LaDell Anderson, whipped the Carolina Cougars 150-93 Tuesday night for their third straight victory in as many outings.

In other games, Indiana kept pace with Utah in the West Division with a 122-117 victory over Denver and New York turned back Pittsburgh 125-120.

In the NBA, it was New York 93, Golden State 84; Boston 134, Baltimore 114; Los Angeles 123, Buffalo 106; Seattle 101, Cincinnati 100; Milwaukee 116, Cleveland 82, and Detroit 101, Portland 99.

Utah finished in second place in the West last season, one game behind Indiana but went on to win the playoffs from Kentucky in seven games. Anderson has taken over as coach, succeeding Bill Sharman.

The Stars set a pair of team scoring records against Carolina. The 150 points were a club high.

Zelmo Beaty topped the Stars with 26 points as seven Utah players reached double scoring figures. Larry Miller was high for Carolina with 17.

Indiana also ran its record to 3-0 as Roger Brown snapped a 115-all tie with Denver, connecting for a pair of baskets with less than two minutes remaining.

Brown went 13-for-13 from the field and 6-for-6 from the foul line in spearheading the Pacers with 35 points. Ralph Sampson sparked the Rockets with 34.

Bill Melchionni collected 32 points and Rick Barry contributed 30 in the Nets' verdict over Pittsburgh. George Carter led the Condors with 33 and John Brisker added 32.

Barry sprained his ankle in the final minute of the game but a team spokesman said the injury was not believed serious

Proud Of Band

Editor-the-Star: I have a question for the people of Hope, especially the football fans. Have you ever thought about how unexciting a game would be, even if it is proved to be a winning game, if there were no band to boost the Bobcats, Razorbacks, Cowboys, or whatever team you're backing?

Our own Hope High School band students work long, long hours mastering the art of marching, their routines, or learning their music and the care of their instruments. They have inspections before their appearances to see that their instruments, gloves, shoes, and uniforms are neat and clean.

They become so hot while marching in our warm weather that some of them become ill. They march in the cold weather with insufficient clothing just to entertain and boost the spirit at games and give a good showing in representing Hope and our school.

When the band marches to the stands there is no applause—and this is understandable—but think of what the band alone adds to the entrance of the "Bobcats" when they come onto the field to the tune of the "Fight Song."

Every child needs something to be involved in and everyone likes music. Not all the students in Hope High can play football, some due to health, size, sex, or lack of desire to be clobbered every day for several months a year. Maybe they don't even like football—but really like music, whatever their reason, the band is a great activity to be in and we do have a good one this year.

As a parent of a Hope Bobcat, and a member of the band, I have a double chance of applauding—but so do we all, so next time you go to a game let the band know you appreciate them as much as you do the "Bobcats". They go together like apple pie and ice cream you know. Sincerely,

A PROUD PARENT

Unprogrammed Happenings in Lion Country

By BOB THOMAS

Associated Press Writer
LAGUNA HILLS, Calif. (AP)—

A pair of rhinos whet their horns together, then saunter in front of your car. An ostrich pokes its beak against your windshield. A hippo gives your fender a nudge and heads for the water.

These are the unprogrammed happenings that can be experienced at Lion Country Safari, a new and prosperous addition to the industry aimed at the leisure dollar.

Walt Disney started it 15 miles away at Disneyland. There the bests are made of plastic but Harry Shuster is attracting tourists to his transplanted veldt with real, live animals that actually roar, belch, bite and occasionally scrape the paint on automobiles that pass through their lairs.

Lion Country Safari is the latest of the attractions that have made Orange County the most cleverly manufactured tourist mecca in the United States. The safari is the brainchild of Shuster, 36, Latvian-born, reared in South Africa, a lawyer with a perception for what will attract the public.

His inspiration: "I knew the wild life game preserves in Africa, and I realized how many tourists were coming to them, just to look at the animals. I then realized how few Americans could afford the trip. So I devised a plan by which I could transfer an African preserve, which normally occupies from 100 to 300 square miles, into one square mile in America."

His first such venture was in West Palm Beach, Fla., in 1967. He expected the $2-million enterprise to require three years to show a profit; he says it made the black within a year. Shuster was encouraged to attempt a more ambitious project—the $11.5 million Lion Country Safari.

"During our first year, which ended in June," Shuster reports, "our attendance was 1.2 million."

Admission is not cheap: $3.25 for adults. Shuster admits that his idea was unusual, caging tourists in their automobiles to observe wild animals that are allowed to roam. The device works—to a certain extent. Most fascinating are the ambulatory animals—ostriches, rhinos, hippos, antelope, giraffes, elephants—some of whom come close to your car.

Disappointing are the cats—tigers and cheetahs—which are somnolent by day and offer little excitement.

The lions are confined to

Selection of the Hope High School Homecoming Royalty marked the beginning of a busy week of preparation for the Bobcats' Friday-night game with Magnolia.

Cindy Hollis was chosen as this year's queen; and the maids are Shirley Benton, Karen Davis, Sandy Flowers, Debbie Gunter, Terri Jones, and Melissa Jordan. These senior girls were selected by the senior members of the Bobcat team.

Work on senior-sophomore and junior-freshman floats began Monday after school and continued through Thursday at the coliseum. Other activities of the week include spur-of-the-moment pep rallies, special honors for senior football players, and the sale of "Bobcats No. 1" buttons.

Presentation of the Homecoming Royalty and coronation of the queen will be observed at 2:30 p.m. in the Friday pep rally in Jones Field House. Later, at 4 p.m. a parade of class floats and cars representing all HHS clubs will be held in downtown Hope.

That night at 7 p.m. the Homecoming Royalty will be introduced to fans from the football field in Hammons Stadium.

The Bobettes pep squad and HHS Band will provide the color guard and cheering as well as music for the pep rally, parade, and ballgame.

Homecoming Week, under the sponsorship of the Student Council, will come to a climax when the Bobcats meet the Magnolia Panthers at 7:30 p.m. A dance at the Youth Center will follow the game.

The week was planned and directed by Student Council Co-Chairmen Mary Jackson, senior representative, and Lester Sitzes, junior representative. A committee, under the direction of Mrs. B.B. McPherson decorated the gym for the afternoon program. They are Delores Norris, Kim Kawakami, and Janice Hobson.

A picture section has been added to the football program to be sold at the Hope-Magnolia game by journalism students. The price of 25 cents will be charged to cover the cost of their own preserve; the other animals pretty much fraternize at will.

"Our only problem with cars," said Shuster, "was with a couple who were going through the lion preserve when their car heater started burning. They were surrounded by lions and it became a real dilemma about what they should do. Fortunately the game rangers observed their predicament and arrived to put out the fire."

Manning Is Honored in Pro Football

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — "I have the greatest respect for Dallas' defensive unit," Archie Manning said.

Perhaps the defensive unit didn't have quite enough respect for Archie. New Orleans' rookie quarterback, taking full advantage of Dallas mistakes, personally ran and passed the Saints to a 24-14 upset of the powerful Cowboys.

His two touchdown scampers and a 29-yard scoring strike to running back Tony Baker gave the Saints all the points they needed Sunday and, as a result, gave Manning the nod today as The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

The flashy 6-foot-3, 204-pounder from Ole Miss, New Orleans' No. 1 draft choice last winter, edged out wide receiver Otis Taylor of Kansas City, running back Bo Scott of Cleveland and quarterback Bob Griese of Miami.

Manning insisted the big play of the game was not one which put points on the scoreboard but rather one which helped keep Dallas from doing so.

"We had less than four minutes to play and, with Roger Staub throwing those two touchdowns, the Cowboys had the momentum. And we had the ball, third-and-six on our own 25 yard line."

"I went back to pass but couldn't find anyone open, so I just took off around the left side," he said. "The gallop netted 13 yards, a first down and more precious time to control the ball."

Three plays later the Saints had to give it up—but Dallas fumbled the punt away on its own three-yard line and, moments later, Manning punched over from the two.

On his 13-yard scoring run, Manning acknowledged it "was actually a pass play, but I couldn't see any receivers getting free. So I simply went up the middle."

"I had to dodge a few people," he said. In fact, six Cowboys had a shot at him—but none could bring him down.

And of his pass to Baker, made on the run as he scrambled away from onrushing tacklers, he said simply "He had two or three defenders on him, but somehow the ball found its way through them."

No Titles So Lakers Add Another Great

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Los Angeles Lakers never have won a National Basketball Association championship since moving to the West Coast from Minneapolis in 1961, although they have three of the league's all-time superstars in Elgin Baylor, Wilt Chamberlain and Jerry West.

Now, they have added a fourth star—and he may make the Lakers shine more than ever.

The latest star on the club is Coach Bill Sharman, who guided the Utah Stars to last season's American Basketball Association championship.

Sharman, a former outstanding player with the Boston Celtics, has seen the Lakers produce three glittering performances in their first three games. The latest was a 123-106 romp over the Buffalo Braves Tuesday night.

In other NBA games, Milwaukee blitzed Cleveland 116-82, Seattle edged Cincinnati 101-100, New York downed Golden State 93-84, Boston trounced Baltimore 134-114, and Detroit nipped Portland 101-99.

In the ABA, it was New York 125, Pittsburgh 120; Utah 150, Carolina 93, and Indiana 122, Denver 117.

Sharman, trying to accomplish what neither Bill Van Breda Kolff nor Joe Mullaney could do since Chamberlain joined the team in 1969, has led the Lakers to victories by 29 points over Detroit, 15 over New York and 17 over Buffalo. What has made his job easier is having his big three together in each game. In the previous two seasons, Baylor, Chamberlain and West had played together in only 13 games because of injuries.

Against the Braves, Chamberlain collected 20 points, West had 18 and Baylor contributed 14. Gail Goodrich led the balanced Los Angeles attack with 24 points.

Rookie Elmore Smith topped Buffalo with 20 points in 22 minutes but fouled out with 4:04 remaining.

Milwaukee's unbeaten defense, champions raced to a 35-12 first-quarter lead against Cleveland and coasted to their fourth victory. Kareem Jabbar, forward, Lew Alcindor, paced the Bucks with 24 points. Bobby Smith topped Cleveland with 26.

Player-coach Len Wilkens hitting hook shot with eight rounds left lifted Seattle past Cincinnati. Dick Snyder was seen for the SuperSonics with 24 points while the Royals' Nate Archibald scored 25.

Dave Stallworth's three field goals starting an 11-point New York streak and Bill Bradley's two fourth-period field goals helped the Knicks to overcome the Warriors. Bradley led all scorers with 21 points. Cazzie Russell, playing his first game since his former Knick team's victory over the Warriors with 14 points.

Bradley's 21 points led all scorers in his first victory at home, Baltimore's Earl Monroe back against former tutors

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners continued harassing allied artillery bases along the Cambodian border today and shelled U.S. Fire Base Pace for the 26th consecutive day.

Pace, 60 miles northwest of Saigon, has been hit by more than 600 rounds of mortars and rockets since the North Vietnamese launched an offensive in the region four weeks ago.

Field reports indicated the well-entrenched American artillerymen have suffered fewer than 30 wounded.

The base commander, Maj. Joseph Dye, 33, of Portland,

New Technique for Open Heart Surgery

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Surgeons at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston have developed a technique for major open-heart surgery without the use of donor blood.

So far, 27 patients, from the age of 2 weeks to 41 years, have undergone major cardiac surgery under the new procedure, the surgeons told the 57th annual clinical congress of the American College of Surgeons.

The surgeons turned to a new technique that had been tested on animals when the parents of a 5-year-old boy refused to grant permission for a blood transfusion, which usually was required for open-heart surgery. The parents were Jehovah's Witnesses.

The patient's body is cooled, his blood withdrawn, a blood substitute is infused, leaving the patient in what the doctors described as "a state of suspended animation."

After the operation, the patient's blood is returned to his body.

Dr. Mortimer J. Buckley, chief of cardiac surgery at Massachusetts General, said the patient's blood is removed after anesthesia and placed in a plastic bag containing preservatives.

The blood is replaced temporarily with a liquid called Ringer's Solution, a clear, colorless substance containing sodium, calcium and potassium chloride. The body is cooled with ice and then the surgeon goes ahead.

In the case of the 5-year-old boy, the surgeons successfully repaired his heart defect.

"We feel that this procedure can become quite widespread," Buckley said Monday, "and will make the operation safer and reduce the over-all need for transfusion in the rapidly growing field of cardiac surgery."

Buckley said the technique also can be used in other types of surgery, such as hip operations, brain surgery, coronary artery replacements and heart valve replacements.

Church Group Picks First Black Leader

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — As the first black person to head the Christian Church (Disciples of Christ), the Rev. Dr. Walter D. Bingham said today he will work for "real integration" in the Church.

"The objective is to bring the races together," he said. "But this is not done by one culture absorbing another, but through appreciating the distinctive contributions of each. It's a sharing."

Dr. Bingham, 50, pastor of a local black congregation, the Third Christian church, was elected Tuesday without opposition as moderator of the denomination at its biennial assembly.

The 1.5 million-member Church, started in slavery times of the early 1800s as an interdenominational revival crusade to unify Christians, is the largest native American denomination.

It is mostly white, but has about 50,000 black members.

My experience as a black Christian leader probably is the chief contribution I can bring to the office of moderator, Dr. Bingham said in an interview.

Ore, told Associated Press photographer Richard Merron: "General activity has gone down. My patrols haven't been running into anything lately, and the number of incoming shells has decreased."

"They continue to harass us but there is no real pattern."

Pace is manned by American and South Vietnamese troops. Nine mortar rounds that hit the American side of the base during the night caused no casualties, but the South Vietnamese said 10 government soldiers were wounded in a 15-round mortar barrage that struck the South Vietnamese portion of Pace.

Willy Brandt Wins Nobel Peace Prize

OSLO, Norway. (AP) — West German Chancellor Willy Brandt today won the 1971 Nobel peace prize.

The 57-year-old Socialist head of the Bonn government receives the equivalent of $88,000 from funds endowed by Alfred Nobel, the inventor of dynamite. The peace prize is awarded annually by the Norwegian parliament.

Danish Socialists and fellow German Social democrats had recommended Brandt for the prize, saying his efforts to improve his country's relations with East Europe were the most important initiative for relaxation of tension in the last decade.

Last week Dr. Earl W. Sutherland Jr. of Vanderbilt University won the Nobel Prize for medicine and Dr. Simon Kuznets of Harvard University won the award in economics. The prize for literature will be awarded in Stockholm on Thursday and the final prize, chemistry-physics, Nov. 2.

Prince Has Own Ideas on Children

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Prince Philip believes in raising children by "committee," leaves day-to-day bottom spanking to palace nannies and doesn't "go" over the children, says the author of his official biography in a special chapter for American edition of the book published here this week.

Basil Boothroyd said he discussed Prince Philip's child raising theories last April after he had completed the British version of his best seller, "Prince Philip, An Informal Biography."

Boothroyd said Philip is not a sentimentalist but also does not live up to his image of stern disciplinarian who lays down the law for the children.

He checked school reports for Prince Charles, now 22, and Princess Anne, 21, and still does for the two younger boys, Andrew, 11, and Edward, 7, but he doesn't worry unless they hit bottom.

"I say, 'Look, I'm only going to bother if you're permanently on bottom,'" Philip is quoted as saying "I really couldn't care less where you are. Just stay in

Wants to Clean Up the Army

FT. McPHERSON, Ga. (AP) — Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert says he hopes to seek political ways to "clean up the Army from the outside."

Herbert, who accused two superior officers of covering up alleged atrocities committed by American soldiers in Vietnam, said in an interview Monday he probably will retire from the Army in February.

He said that since the war crimes charges he filed were "swept under the rug," he would "lay everything before the American people and let them decide for themselves."

Boothroyd said that once the children are old enough to have "sensible" views they are raised on a committee basis, with the children getting a vote.

"It's not good saying do this, do that, don't do that, don't do this," said Philip. "You can warn them about certain things. That's about the most you can do, or you can say, 'This is the situation you're in. These are the choices. On balance it looks as if this is the sensible one. Go away and come back and let me know what you think.'"

Boothroyd said that once the children are old enough to have "sensible" views they are raised on a committee basis, with the children getting a vote.

Couple Operates as a Team on a Crane

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Where regulations call for a two-man crew on crane operations, the B&B Construction Co. gets away with one.

But it's all legal, because the pilot of the lift truck which holds steel joists for Bernard Ellinger's crane is Bertha Ellinger, his wife and the other "B" in the company title.

The two have been operating as a steel construction team for three years, mainly as a result of Bertha's desire to save money—and her family's laughter when she first suggested donning a hard hat.

Now that she's there, she'll be hard to get rid of. "I own the equipment," she said as she pulled a stool up to a drafting table at the Westwood Shopping Center construction site.

Her three sons and son-in-law also are involved in the business, based in Kalamazoo.

Bertha had to overcome more than her family's skepticism, however.

Although she had "tended welders and lifted buckets," the union which had to license her was unwilling to accept her until she worked a year under union supervision on a sub-contracting job.

"I wouldn't go away," Bertha said. "They told me I was a female. I told him it was my equipment and that I was going to operate it."

She said at least one other woman in the state has qualified for the work since a union representative gave her an operator's license.

Although she weighs only 118 pounds and her feet barely reach the truck pedals, Bertha has encountered little resentment from her male co-workers.

"They've never knocked me," she said. "They know why I'm here."

Economic Legislation at Glance

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are key provisions of the bill President Nixon sent to Congress Tuesday to broaden his economic-control powers and extend them to April 30, 1973:

—In addition to power granted by the present act to control wages, prices and rents, the bill would give the President standby authority to stabilize interest rates and dividends at "levels consonant with orderly economic growth."

—It permits the President to delegate wage-price authority to the board and commission set up under the post-freeze machinery. And it would give the two bodies subpoena powers.

—On top of a $5,000 criminal fine under present law, it would impose a $2,500 civil penalty for each violation. The government's power to seek injunctions remains.

—The bill would establish a temporary emergency court of appeals to handle wage-price cases. The chief justice of the United States Supreme Court would name the members, three or more federal district or appellate judges. The court would have exclusive jurisdiction to rule on the constitutionality of the law itself or any government regulation or order dealing with Phase 2 controls.

The bill would ratify actions already taken by Nixon in connection with the freeze, including orders and regulations issued by the Cost of Living Council.

Dictatorship by Military in Cambodia

By ROBIN MANNOCK
Associated Press Writer

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) — Premier Lon Nol said today he set up a military dictatorship to halt a drift into anarchy. He announced a new government which he said would lead the nation to victory.

The semi-invalid Cambodian strongman told the nation in a brief radio speech that because "certain groups, clans and associations" were "seeking to divide the nation by sowing confusion," Cambodia had been heading "ineluctably toward defeat."

The only alternative, he said, was to "combat this anarchy" by ending "this sterile game of democracy."

There was some confusion over exactly what Lon Nol meant when he spoke of "groups, clans and associations." Some believed he referred to the embryonic political parties which were formed after the ouster of Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the head of state, in March 1970. But Information Minister Long Boret said he referred to a "fifth column" serving the Viet Cong.

Lon Nol made himself a dictator officially as well as in fact last Sunday when the government ordered the National Assembly and the Council of the Republic, the upper house, to transform themselves into a constituent assembly.

"As from today, legislative powers have been assumed provisionally by the executive branch," Long Boret told reporters.

The government was already ruling by decree under emergency powers, but it was reported irritated by criticism in the National Assembly.

Not Easy to Find an Elephant

By GREGG HERRINGTON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some days you can't even rent an elephant.

Not even when your boss is a United States senator and the elephant is needed for a ride by not one but two senators. And the pachyderm is needed to pay off a World Series bet.

"I thought we'd be able to get one from the zoo," said John Fogarty, aide to Sen. Charles McC. Mathias of Maryland. "But those aren't riding elephants. Elephants have to be trained to carry people, just like horses."

Now Fogarty and Diane Smith from the office of Maryland's other senator, J. Glenn Beall, have gone to the circus.

Miss Smith said the Pollack Brothers Circus, now in Richmond, offered three elephants for $500. "That's too much money," she declared. "And they won't rent just one. They don't want to break up a set, I guess."

The Republican senators will take their strange quest for an elephant, any elephant, next to Ringling Brothers-Barnum & Bailey Circus which will be in Philadelphia next month.

At stake in the quest is nothing less than a bet on the World Series. Beall and Mathias, proud of their Baltimore Orioles, bet Pennsylvania's two GOP senators, equally proud of the Pittsburgh Pirates, that the losers would pay and the winners would ride.

The Pirates decided, by winning their fourth series game, that the Maryland senators would pay for the ride in front of the Capitol—if they can find an elephant.

Actress Takes Settlement of $49,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Kim Novak accepted a $49,000 Superior Court settlement Tuesday in her $1 million personal injury damage suit against an automobile repair firm.

The 37-year-old actress said she suffered a concussion, cuts and abrasions in 1966 when a car she was driving overturned after a rear wheel came off.

She accused the company, Morgan and Sons, of negligence in failing to properly secure the wheel.

Change of Names: Will It Bring More Success to Dionne Warwick?

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "People like to spread wings," said singer Dionne Warwick, whose last name last year lacked its present last letter.

"I don't believe in putting people in pigeonholes and expecting them to stay there. It stunts their growth."

That's why the vibrant and versatile young Negro vocalist doesn't like to be classified as any single type of singer. She doesn't want to be confined to any type of music—such as blues and rhythm, folk, rock, folk, pop, middle of the road, straight blues, jazz or acid rock.

"I don't categorize myself, and I don't like to be categorized by anyone else," said Miss Warwick. "I simply sing to the listening ear."

A strong individualist in anything she undertakes, Dionne added a final "E" to her name this year because of her interest in numerology, the occult numbers of the significance of numbers.

"The name Warwick carried good vibrations," she said, "but putting an 'E' at the end should produce even better vibrations, numerologically speaking, and speed sooner to me the things promised."

There may be no connection with the changed spelling of her name, but the latest album by Dionne, issued three weeks ago, has already sold more than 300,000. That means $1 million in sales.

Her latest hit is no surprise to the industry. Since she hit the big time with "Don't Make Me Over" and "Anyone Who Had a Heart," Dionne has been regarded as the most consistently successful feminine recording star since Patti Page.

Miss Warwick, now winding up an engagement at the Copacabana night club here, started singing gospels at 6 in the church of her grandfather, a Methodist minister.

She began her professional career in a Miami night club at 20 for $325 a week. In a peak week last year she earned $100,000.

She gives more than 100 college concerts a year now, sings six to eight weeks in Las Vegas, four weeks in Miami, and four weeks in New York.

"My schedule would put a lot of people in the grave," she remarked, "but it keeps me trim and alert. Between my schedule and taking care of my son David—he's 2½ now I'm in better shape than any football player."

Deeply religious and quite generous, Dionne donates some $50,000 a year to a scholarship fund for both black and white music students who are "economically unable but academically inclined."

"It isn't only the black child who needs education," she observed quietly. "It's every child."

In a world of anxiety, what is her greatest fear?

"I'm a nut," she laughed. "I'm not afraid of anything."

Her are the things Dionne likes:

"Good food of any kind—shoes and boots—dressy clothes and jewelry—Every minute of every day I'm alive—cities, because that's where people are—occult novels, such as 'The Exorcist'—hues of lavender, purple or blue—gardenias—the sound of laughter—the feeling of soft things like fur, velvet, silk and babies—making hooked rugs—contact sports—and honest people who are themselves."

And here are her dislikes:

"Phonies and liars but not all thieves, because some are honest thieves—being rushed or hurried—snails and oysters and steak tartare—the color red because it means stop to me—in-somnia—the smell of a city, because it smells like an overworked horse—midresses—yelling or being yelled at—the sound of acid rock music—baseball, badminton and people who paw you."

Thinks Rock Opera Having Good Impact

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Evangelist Billy Graham says the rock opera "Jesus Christ Superstar" is having one good impact on the nation.

Agnew Visits Ancient Ruins in Greece

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer

IRAKLION, Greece (AP) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew toured the ancient ruins at Knossos today, then viewed the 26th century might of the North Atlantic alliance at a NATO missile base.

Agnew sat on the alabaster throne of King Minos, the legendary monarch of Minoan Crete, then joked that he wasn't quite ready for that.

He spent more than an hour touring the ruins and a museum of Minoan artifacts, guided by Mrs. Eletheria Gavala, and by Deputy Premier Stylianos Patacos.

The next stop on his day's tour of the islands of Crete and Rhodes was the NATO missile base at Hania, Crete, for a briefing and a view of the missiles there.

Agnew already had received a NATO briefing at the Greek Pentagon in Athens, and the alliance was the only announced subject of some 6½ hours of conferences with Premier George Papadopoulos.

The vice president had a word of praise for the authoritarian Greek regime Tuesday. With Papadopoulos at his side in Gargaliani, Agnew said he has seen "some of the excellent things that are happening in rural Greece" under the present government. He mentioned advances in electrification, education, health and welfare.

"I recognize and appreciate the achievements that are going forward under the present Greek government," he said.

Thousands of Greeks had jammed Gargaliani for Agnew's visit to his late father's native town. Again Tuesday night in Iraklion, Crete's largest city, thousands jammed the route of Agnew's motorcade to a welcoming ceremony in Liberty Square. A vast crowd applauded and cheered as church bells pealed and girls in native costume threw flowers in his path.

who don't pretend to believe in Christ, it is calling attention to Jesus and provides a chance for ministers to tell young people just who Jesus was and why He came here," Graham said.

Litigation Planned to Make Little Rock's Busing Unnecessary

By DALA MCKINSEY
Associated Press Writer

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Now that a platoon of yellow school buses is shuttling Little Rock pupils from one section of the city to another, Little Rock's leading civil rights lawyer is planning litigation which would eventually make busing unnecessary.

John Walker and his firm were primary forces in one court case after another which led to busing students to achieve racial balance.

Within the next few months Walker is planning legal moves which would take the desegregation a step further.

After winning the battle to rid Little Rock of racially identifiable schools, he intends to file suit to rid Little Rock of racially identifiable neighborhoods.

"The real problem is that we live apart—not only black apart from white, but rich from middle class and middle class from poor," Walker said. "It is necessary to reunite the city, just as the schools are reunited."

"I think that the same device used to unify the schools can be used to unify us," Walker said.

"Our intention is to try and promote practices of redistricting through housing," Walker said.

"Housing integration is the answer to (elimination of) busing," he said. Walker described busing as an "artificial tool at best."

Walker said the first step his firm will take will be to file suit to enjoin the city, through urban planning, real estate agents and neighborhood development, from "operating racially identifiable projects."

The second step, Walker says, will be to legally force the Department of Housing and Urban Development to place their projects in all neighborhoods, not just the central city.

He said HUD has the power of eminent domain and can locate throughout the city.

"We have to attack HUD because it is the greatest segregator of them all," he said.

Walker says that there have been some good precedents set in Chicago and Bogalusa, La., where federal judges held that the Model Cities Program was at fault for failure to make construction site choices for their projects in white neighborhoods.

"The premise is that the housing authority has pursued policies and practices of discrimination," he said.

Walker is optimistic. Fresh from winning the battles of the school buses, he is confident that the neighborhoods will be the next successful goal.

He anticipates a long fight, just as with the schools.

He said that in the local and Circuit Courts he lost one case after another, but in the appeals courts the earlier decisions in the school cases were overturned.

If the city and federal officials would take the steps themselves, Walker said that the task could be accomplished within a year. Walker estimates through that three years will pass before he reaches his goal in Little Rock.

As in the school cases, any housing rulings will spread wave-like to other areas of the state, he believes.

"Little Rock determines what goes on in the rest of the state," he said. "If Little Rock can determine what policies to follow effectively, others will follow its lead."

However, Walker says that "Little Rock is still very much a racist town because of the people who run the town."

While not advocating violence, Walker says the power structure in the town needs "broader leadership."

"It is unfortunate that too few people here control too much," he said. "We expect them to yield power reasonably soon."

But Walker says that those to whom the power would go "have not shown much initiative—we have to forge a new power

SERENE CENTER of a political tempest over the filling of two vacant seats, the Supreme Court building is reflected in the waters of a fountain.

Seeks Place to Hold Court

Among those named by Walker as not yielding power are: Fifty for the Future, a businessman's group; the Little Rock Chamber of Commerce, and those who control the banks.

At 34, Walker and his law firm, Walker, Kaplan, Lavey and Mays, have established a reputation for handling civil rights cases. But, those types of cases do not put bread on their tables.

Walker says that very seldom can the plaintiffs in the firm's civil rights cases make any sort of remuneration. The firm counts on criminal and similar cases to make expenses.

Walker's law firm was one of the first three integrated law firms in the South. Three of the firm's lawyers are white.

The firm's unostentatious office is a converted house on 13th Street, just blocks from Central High School, the site of the 1967 school crisis.

The entrance to the office is a converted sun porch and blacks sit on folding metal chairs waiting to see the lawyers.

Hanging from one wall are the scales of justice, one pan holding a white doll baby and the other pan holding a black child. The scales are balanced.

Tall and thin, Walker strides to his own office, which might have been a living room at one time. There is carpeting on the floor. On the walls hang diplomas from Yale and New York University. He also has a degree from Arkansas AM&N College in Pine Bluff.

Over the mantle of the fireplace is a drawing of a black man holding the torch of liberty, lighting the way for a throng of blacks behind him.

Walker, a native of Hope, candidly explains one of the reasons he became involved in civil rights cases is because of the difficulties a black lawyer experiences in getting cases.

He and his wife and five children live in a house in a white neighborhood. The fence was burned after he first moved there, but he said there has been no other harassment.

Last year, Walker said he was denied the right to buy a house in Pleasant Valley, an exclusive neighborhood west of Little Rock.

After a black entertainer reportedly unsuccessfully attempted to buy a house, Walker sent a $1,000 check to the association controlling the area and was informed by return letter that all available property had been taken off the market.

Eventually Walker intends to buy a house there.

He jokingly said he might buy a $10,000 lot and put a $10,000 house on it. Most of the homes in Pleasant Valley run from $40,000 upward.

Walker bemoans the fact that Little Rock is suffering, as other cities suffer, from migration from the inner city to the outskirts. He feels, however, that a great deal of the responsibility can be heaped on the shoulders of the city fathers.

All the best parks are located on the west side of town, inaccessible to poor blacks, he says. He wonders why the land in the central portion of the city was not developed as a park.

Walker says that those in control of city planning are also at fault. The streets are being widened in the west end of town, but not in the east.

In addition, Walker says the relocation of Baptist Hospital in the west leaves blacks in the central city stranded without adequate medical care. The old Baptist Hospital will continue to function, but the new hospital will be the center of the hospital's operations.

Walker theorized that those doctors on the board of trustees of the hospital wanted the hospital moved so it would be near their offices on the west end of town.

"The further west you go, the more government assistance you see," Walker said.

A portion of the blame for the city's development is assigned by Walker to real estate interests.

He says that not only has the west end been touted as the section to live in, but the other side of town has been designated the Model Cities area, setting up two different communities.

He says that as the Model Cities program takes over, whites and blacks are relocated. But he noted that poor whites and the elderly, whom he describes as the "most defenseless minority" in town, have nowhere to live.

While the school situation is better, Walker says, it is far from perfect.

He says that more blacks are needed as teachers and black pupils must be given more participation in extracurricular activities at the schools.

Walker is not just the champion of the blacks.

He recently defended a youth in Beebe who wanted to wear his hair long, to the chagrin of school officials.

In between his other cases, Walker says he intends to work for equal rights for girls in the public school system. He feels that intramural athletics should be available to girls as well as boys.

A letter from Augusta, Ga., reads, "West opened the 10 of hearts. East took his ace and returned the three. I won with the king and led my five of spades. West thought for a while and proceeded to go up with his ace. Then he thought some more and finally led the king of clubs. He continued the suit and I was down one. My partner thinks that I should have passed to three diamonds. I claim he should have passed two diamonds. What do you think?"

We think that West is a very fine player. He was able to visualize the whole hand. To start with, it became apparent that East held just two hearts. Then he counted five diamonds and three hearts for our correspondent. In that case, one spade trick would give him the contract. West's only chance was to find East with just what he held and West made his move.

Now for the bidding. North and South bid their hands to the limit. North held just 11 high-card points for his response, but he also held three 10 spots. South held just 13 high-card points for

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB
Ideas on Body Hair Are Partly Cultural

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I would very much appreciate it if you could give me some information on how to get rid of unwanted hair. It seems that the hair on the top of my legs and on my upper lip has come in dark and long. I was wondering if perhaps hormone shots would help?

Dear Reader—Hair is a natural part of the body. Our ideas of how much hair women should have is partly cultural. In some countries, for example, hair on the legs of women is not considered unattractive.

Of course, serious hormone imbalance can cause major hair problems but the hair problems most people worry about are normal hair growth. Hormone shots are not indicated for this.

There is a thriving business in removing unwanted normal hair. Almost all depilatories sold for this purpose are alkalizers and soften or dissolve the hair. Because hair is really the same chemical material as the skin these preparations are often very irritating and can be damaging. To prevent problems one must follow the directions with the package very carefully. These agents usually need to be used two or three times a month. Individuals who have had skin irritation problems from soaps or detergents should probably not use them.

A better solution is to have electrical epilation done. Each hair follicle is destroyed by electricity. It takes several treatments to be sure that all the individual hair follicles are destroyed but the effect is permanent.

Dear Dr. Lamb—What do you think about Christian Science?

Dear Reader—Faith affects the emotional status of a person and has a lot to do with health.

I try not to judge whether

After the Debate Is Over
By TOM TIEDE

MANSFIELD, Conn. — (NEA) — The controversy began last summer. The issue was whether newly franchised college students should stick to their home towns or be allowed to register and vote in the communities where they attend school.

Angry debate howled across the nation.

The question was of particular concern in college towns. Especially college towns where the students outnumber the residents. Here in Mansfield, for example, home of the University of Connecticut, there are fewer than 5,000 regularly eligible voting citizens, but as many as 11,500 potential voters on campus. (The school population is 15,000; but at least 3,500 students live outside Mansfield.)

When Mansfield officials were advised they would have to permit all or any of the students to register, there was at least a little pain and wonderment.

Grumped one town father: "The hippies and colored kids will take us over."

As it turned out, however, the fears, as well as the controversy, seem to have been greatly exaggerated. And the "hippies and colored kids" comment seems all the more asinine. According to the Mansfield voting registrar, college registration here this autumn was "very light," almost insignificant. "We don't classify people by occupations," says the voting official, "so I can't tell how many students have registered. But certainly not more than a couple hundred."

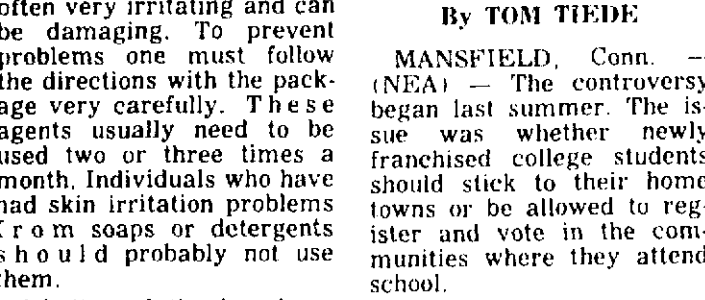

A couple hundred. Out of 11,500 potentially eligible. It works out to less than two per cent. Thus the regulars of this particular college town will go into November elections still firmly in control of their own balloted destinies.

And so, it appears, will most and probably all residents of the other college communities in the nation. No firm polling of registration has yet been made on any national scale, but a quick check of some smallish university towns indicates students are nowhere flocking to take over the established vote power.

For example, last summer a group of young lawyers from the American Bar Association studied voter-student populations in college towns across the country. They determined (in a report never made public) that there were many college communities which were vulnerable to a student voter takeover. Among them: Mansfield, Clemson, N.C. (Clemson University), Blacksburg, Va. (VPI), Grambling, La. (Grambling College) and Alfred, N.Y. (Alfred University). At recent look, none of these towns has registered students in significant numbers. The Mansfield figures are above, two of the other towns refuse student registration by law, and officials in Blacksburg and Alfred report student registration has been "quiet."

This isn't to say student

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Geese are useful in weeding peppermint and cotton fields, and in Scotland guard barrels of aging whisky from intruders by alerting guards with their cackling. The World Almanac notes, however, that veteran geese in peppermint fields acquire a taste for the concentrated herb and are being replaced by use of a new herbicide.
